WE NOMINATE

William Shepherd Dix, this country's Chairman of the National Commission for UNESCO, who twice in the past ten days has merited the headlines that have tragically been awarded to political spokesmen for members of the United Nations gathered together for solemn conclave in New York City. While the raucous voiced, but increasingly inarticulate, representatives of the Soviet bloc and the "neutral nations" have been making the welkin ring, the 50-year old Dix and his associates have been projecting plans for the Eleventh Session of the General Conference of UNESCO to be held in Paris starting November 14.

This past week a somewhat obscure Saudi Arabian visitor to Princeton, the publisher of a weekly newspaper and of paper-back volumes in modern Arabic, laid the facts on the line. He told scholars over lunch: "The statesmen, or politicians, have let us down; our last hopes are the scholars and teachers who are willing to combine their efforts through UNESCO." It is largely for this reason that Dix's appointment as Vice-Chairman of the American delegation to Paris, back-stopping the Special Assistant to the Secretary of State, means so much to UNESCO and to its supporters in the United States.

During the past ten days newspaper dispatches have failed to touch upon Dix's role in organizing the recent "briefing session" for the American members of UNESCO and upon his leadership in scheduling next fall's 8th National UNESCO Conference which will focus attention upon "Africa South of Sahara." He has also been among the activators in insisting that next month's gathering of the General Conference, UNESCO's governing body, must give first priorities to the urgent needs for expanded staffs, and larger educational facilities, in Asia, the Near East and Africa.

One of this country's deeply respected library statesmen and in his eighth year as Princeton University's librarian, the Virginia-born Dix has helped the United States attain a position of world leadership in library affairs. He belongs to the group of little-publicized educators who have been working effectively with their counterparts in any number of nations, adapting the philosophy and techniques of American librarianship to individual national needs. It is his belief that a well-run library "is an integral part of a way of life, or way of education, reflecting and also implementing the aspirations of those it serves."

As Chairman of the American Library Association's Committee on Intellectual Freedom, Dix performed yeoman's service in the early 1950's and helped sponsor one of the meaningful documents of the past decade, "The Freedom to Read," issued in 1953, some weeks before President Eisenhower gave his famous "book-burning address" at Dartmouth College. This statement of principles emphasizes: "Freedom has given the United States the elasticity to endure strain . . . Every silencing of a heresy, every enforcement of an orthodoxy, diminishes the toughness and resilience of our society and leaves it less able to deal with stress."

For contributing to the on-going development of UNESCO, one of the world's hopes in the building of a lasting peace; for understanding that learning and knowledge are among our "greatest instruments for freedom," for distinguished, unsung achievement; he is Town Topics' nominee for

SUDDENLY IT'S FALL

Schools Face Problems. Princeton parents, accustomed to sighing with relief once the children are off to school in the fall, discovered this week that the autumn of 1960 brings to Princeton schools not peace, but problems.

● First: The Township schools have suddenly found themselves with more children than they ever expected. Like happy little feet, the children poured out of street, lane, avenue and drive on the first day of school to swell building capacity almost to bursting, and to confront the Township School Board with the necessity for an immediate decision on where to put them all—now, and ten years from now.

● Second: The Division of Field Studies and research at Rutgers released to both school boards its study of possible consolidation of Borough and Township school districts. The report is now under study.

The rate of population increase was not obvious until school opened, despite surveys made in April. To cite just two examples:
when school opened on September 12, there were 35 more kindergarteners and 45 more seventh and eighth graders than anyone had expected.

On September 15, school board members tentatively approved the preliminary plans of Palmer and Bowers for the Community Gardens school, but it was apparent even then, that this school was filled to the brim even before it was off the drawing board.

Dr. William Purcell, superintendent of schools, therefore presented to the Board last Thursday four alternative building programs based on information already at hand. The Board had hoped to decide Thursday night which building program to follow, but voted to postpone action until more data can be assembled.

Specifically, the Board directed Dr. Purcell to assemble the following data for its October 30 meeting: 1) a population prediction by neighborhoods; 2) a determination from the State Department of Education on the legality of one of the preferred alternatives; 3) an outline of building needs beyond 1965 — perhaps as far ahead as 1970; and 4) a rough comparison between the cost of building additions on Valley Road School and increasing the planned size of Community Gardens School.

More Construction Planned.
The first of the two preferred alternatives involves adopting a K-5 organization in the elementary schools and a 6, 7, 8 organization at Valley Road. All the Township's sixth grades would be moved to Valley Road School.
This plan requires a four-room addition on the Valley Road School immediately and an addition to Littlebrook School in 1960.
This is the alternative whose legality must be determined.

The second of the two preferred alternatives involves adopting a K-5 organization in Johnson Park, Littlebrook and Riverside Schools and adding a second story with nine rooms to the new Community Gardens school where all the Township's sixth grades would be consolidated. This plan also requires an addition to Littlebrook School in 1966.

The rejected alternatives would have put all grades, K through six, in individual schools. The Board rejected these proposals because of its preference for a K-5 system. Board members and school officials feel that it is better to have all the sixth graders in one school where they can be taught more advanced subjects by specialized teachers.

The pattern of growth in the Township's school population has shifted with the years, according to John McKenna, assistant superintendent. New houses are being built in a price range which young married couples cannot afford; therefore, many new children in Township schools are the junior high or high school age children of older parents. Young couples with kindergarten-age children no longer move into the University's Harrison Street project as the father completes his graduate studies. Instead, the project has become the home of University employees who stay, raise the children they have and probably have more.

Consolidation? To this complex of statistics, population shifts and the patter of little feet, the Rugers Division of Field Studies and Research has added its impartial study of the possibility that Township and Borough School districts might consolidate.
"Consolidation is favored by the fact that Princeton Borough and Princeton Township conform to what sociologists call a "natural sociological area." The report states.

With consolidation, there would be a single board of education and administration which could develop and execute policies for the whole program, thereby enhancing the flexibility of programming. The report points out, for example, that the teaching of science and mathematics may present problems in the future that could be more easily solved by one district than by two, plus sending districts.

Consolidation would also give every resident of Borough and Township an equal voice in the entire educational program, beginning through 12th grade, plus equal rights in electing board members, participating in budget decisions and so on. (At present, although Township children attend the Borough's high school, Township voters have no voice in electing the board that runs the high school.)

Finally, the report suggests that consolidation would create a more heterogeneous and therefore, a healthier school system, and would permit the construction of schools where they were needed, without regard to municipal boundaries.

"A Borough and Township school district consolidation could operate for from $20,000 to $30,000 less than two separate districts," the report states. "The savings occur almost entirely in the broad category of administration, with the reduction in boards of education, board secretaries, board attorneys, etc., from two to one and with a small reduction in numbers of school administrators and secretaries."

The report notes that in many areas there is already co-operation between the two systems. (In the fields of math and science curriculum mentioned above, for example.) However, the report points out that because such planning is voluntary, "there is not quite the degree, or the certainty of unified approach inherent in a unified administration."

Finances. Although there would be a saving of at least $20,000 a year through consolidation, there would be a loss of $1,000 to $7,000 a year in school building aid received from the state, according to the report, because the state does not give financial incentive aid to consolidated districts.

There would also be a shift in the tax balance which could drop the Township rate by 10 to 15 points, and raise the Borough school tax rate by 55 to 83 points. The study points out, however, that although the Borough might share in the expense of building Township schools, the Township would pay a substantial portion of the cost of replacing the Borough's two elementary schools when that becomes necessary.

The 48-page report is now in the hands of both mayors, the Planning Board, Township Committee, Borough Council and the Parent-Teacher organizations. There are also copies in the public library.

CANTEEN DISCUSSED

By sponsoring Committees. The sponsoring organizations of the Princeton Teen Canteen met this week to discuss Canteen activity in light of the Board of Education's recent criticism. Present at the meeting were representatives of the PTA, the YMCA, the YWCA, the Junior Chamber of Commerce and the teenage governing body. Sergeant Frank McGuire, Borough Juvenile Officer, was also present.

The group felt there had been few problems, considering that the Canteen serves 200 to 400 teenagers each week throughout the year, and that it would be desirable for the police and Board of Education to advise the Committee immediately of any future problems. Neither George Dixon, the paid director of the Canteen, nor any committee member had been informed of infractions of the Canteen rules during the year. (For other opinions on the Board of Education's decision on the Canteen, see Mailbox, page 13.)

Changes Planned. The committee agreed to a re-enrollment plan for all Canteen members, effective immediately. New membership cards will be issued in different colors on a yearly basis, so that members cannot continue in the Canteen after they had reached the maximum age. Some problems had occurred with older teenagers participating in Canteen activities on invalid membership cards, the Committee felt.

Strict enforcement of dress rules was decided upon, rather than a change in the rules, with the teenage governing body to set the pattern of proper dress and behavior. These rules would be printed on all application forms for membership, which require a parent's signature. No guests will be admitted to the Canteens for the next few weeks until re-enrollment is complete, and guests will not be allowed unless they come from an area outside the sending districts.

Another suggestion made at the meeting was to list procedures for police officers which would clearly define their specific duties. The responsibility of parents was discussed at length, with the constant need for parent chaperones emphasized by the Chaperone Committee. This committee noted some reluctance on the part of parents to help.

It was felt that parents should be certain their children remain at the Canteen during a given evening. Some teenagers, it was reported, have used the Canteen as an excuse to their parents and had not stayed there the full time Canteen rules require those leaving a dance may not be readmitted.

The Committee felt a program to educate parents as to the needs and responsibilities of the Canteen should be instituted, and meetings will be planned for this purpose. In re-applying to the Board of Education for the use of the Nassau Street School, the Committee will send a letter, outlining the steps it will take to insure enforcement of Canteen rules.

A letter of thanks from the Committee Secretary and the Teen Council Secretary will be sent to Mayor Male for the use of Borough Hall where the Canteen met last week.

Those present at the meeting were: John Eshman, Chairman of the Adult Board and member of the Junior Chamber of Commerce; George Dixon, Canteen director; Thomas Turner, George Russo of the PTA; Mrs. Marian Bain, Mrs. Georgine Hall and Mrs. Virginia Watson of the YWCA; Walter Sorg and Edward Horer of the YMCA; Walter Morgan of the Junior Chamber of Commerce; and Sergeant McGuire.

WHO SHALL BE ASSESSED? Township Committee Flanders. "My client has no objection to the assessment," said H.R. Zink, lawyer representing Donald S. Bond, 406 Snowden Lane, and the remark struck such a harmonious note in a meeting which had already its share of discord, that incredulous Mayor R. Kenneth Fairman asked Mr. Zink to repeat.

Township Committee heard on Monday night from other resident of the Van Dyke area who are not quite so contented as Mr. Bond with the allocation of the $23,000 Van Dyke Road paving assessment. Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Humphreys of Van Dyke Road protested that the newly-paved road "didn't go anywhere". Mayor Fairman assured them that it would next year when it is extended to Randall Road.

Mrs. Humphreys also asserted that the road had been built solely for Trinity Church so that it could have access to its new All Saints' Chapel. Mr. Fairman said this was not entirely true, and pointed out that Trinity had made a financial contribution.

Trinity, in its turn, submitted a letter pointing out that each time the assessments were adjusted to favor private property owners, Trinity's levy was increased. It was approximately $5,000 in May, then was increased to $6,000 in July and is now $7,500. The church plans no formal objection now, but said it would Bayard Stockton 3d, assessed some $4,000, also said that Van Dyke Road didn't go anywhere, and furthermore, that it was now so graded that he couldn't get from one piece of his property to another without building a bridge, or getting permission from Trinity to go on its property.

After some figuring, Committee man Stanley C. Smoyer said that actually, the new alignment of the road was an advantage to Mr.
Stockton if he ever wanted to subdivide, because any road he built would be right on the Trinity property line, which would give potential buyers a "park" to look at instead of other houses.

Why Pay? Mr. Smoyer, addressing himself to all the protestors said the theory of assessment is that a property-owner is benefited by having a public street in front of his house, because he gets snow removal, repairs and increased sale value.
Mr. Humphreys said that on the contrary, he had trouble selling his property because the newly-paved road detracted from the country atmosphere of the area.
The assessments were approved by Township Committee unanimously, but additional problems were just around the corner—a paved corner.

The Riverside Drive East paving assessment proved to be so complex that it was taken under advisement. One problem seemed to be caused by a statement which Walter Gibson, Riverside Drive East and Kingston Road, said had been made to him by the Planning Board and by Town-

News Of The THEATRES

"RIGHT YOU ARE" NEXT
"Lady" Now Showing. McCarter Theatre's "Comedy in the Theatre" series is scheduled to open this Thursday night with a production of Christopher Fry's lyric comedy, "The Lady's Not for Burning." It will continue with performances Friday and Saturday at 8:30 and a matinee Saturday at 2:30.

Next Thursday, Pirandello's "Right You Are" will be offered on the same schedule, and successive Thursdays will bring openings of "The Tavern" by George M. Cohan, "The Sea-gull" by Chekhov, "Doctor for a Dumb Wife," a Moliere-Anatole France synthesis, and "The Importance of Being Earnest," by Oscar Wilde.

The plays are cast from a resident company of 24 professional players who have had long experience in working together in Broadway and off-Broadway classic revivals, Shakespeare Festivals and in various other drama groups. While the current week's play is in its final stages of rehearsal and in performance, the following week's production will be entering its first rehearsals.

Later plays of the series are already in the planning stages. First rehearsals take place in New York in the headquarters of the Association of Producing Artists parent company of the resident group, and final technical and dress rehearsals are held in McCarter.

MCCARTER OPENS

With New Season. So far at least, the unspoken question in the minds of Princeton's theatre-goers can be answered with a resounding affirmative: McCarter Theatre's new venture in the performing arts has started splendidly. Two productions from the repertory of the Association of Producing Artists have been presented with vivacity and finesse. The season is well begun.

It seems at first like a piece of audacity to present as an opening night play, a work as well-known as Shaw's "Man and Superman," with its lengthy "Don Juan in Hell" section to extend the hour of the final curtain, and to remind audiences vividly of stars who have read these very lines.

Actually, it was a shrewd move. The Shaw and "Anatol," which followed it, are part of the APA repertory and as such are part of the blood and bones of the company, "ice-breakers" to open a season and a new enterprise with a minimum of anguish and of effort.

Allen Fletcher has directed a "Man and Superman" which is articulate, fast, sprightly, knowing, and above all, judiciously cut. Ellis Rabb, an actor so thin that when he turns his side to the footlights the audience won-

Baby's Not for Burning

A baby-sitting service and a reservation service in nearby restaurants are among the new offerings for patrons of McCarter Theatre.

The baby-sitters, Princeton undergraduates, will be taken to the theatre-goer's home half an hour before curtain time, (or just about the time a husband says, "But I gave you the tickets!") The baby-sitting charge is 75c an hour and the service should be ordered at least 24 hours in advance by calling McCarter, WA 1-8700.

The restaurant reservation service is on the house. Diners who want to reserve a table at those Princeton restaurants where reservations are recommended should telephone McCarter box-office no later than noon the day of the performance. Telephone reservations are also accepted for all McCarter attractions, and tickets will be held until 8:15 for evening shows, and 2:15 for matinees.

ders if he's really there, played John Tanner and Don Juan with a fine mixture of cerebral force and Life Force, and if on occasion he said his lines too fast, an understanding audience appreciated that he had a great many of them to say.

Rabb and Richard Easton as Octavius Robinson, were the outstanding members of the cast, although the APA host-art system pretty much guarantees that no one actor will ever dominate a play. Easton, the love-sick poet, played the hand-wringing, calf-eyed part with smoothness and technical skill which make one recall with embarrassment the indignities that have been the lot of Octavius in the hands of less adroit actors.

Dual Roles Filled. Rosemary Harris, who is Mrs. Rabb, seemed almost too arch and too coy as Ann Whitefield. The role requires these characteristics, of course, but it seemed for a time that Miss Harris had a little too much of both. However, as Donna Ana in the "Don Juan" section, she had a chance to show that she can be more than a pouting pretty, and she carried off well the Imperious Spanish aristocrat who hopes for a Superman.

Paul Sparer as Mendoza the brigand chieftain and the Devil, and Thayer David as Roebuck Ramsden and The Commander, fulfilled their dual roles well enough, but it seemed to this reviewer that the "Don Juan" section might well have been left out. It was undoubtedly a Good Thing for the students who crowded McCarter on opening night to see the play in its entirety—except for those judicious cuts—but "Don Juan" is in theatrical fashion on his own just now, and most of the audience has probably seen the section, plucked from context, too recently to want to see it again.

However, it is certainly a tribute to Mr. Fletcher and his actors, and just possibly a tribute to Shaw as well, that the length of the play was scarcely noticeable.

As a production, "Man and Superman," was mounted simply, William D. Roberts dispensed with a curtain, and designed a set based on those 20-inch wooden cubes that have four-inch slots for hand holds. Tasseled cushions transform these cubes into chairs or couches and other modular pieces served as mantels, brick-pier fireplaces, and the room-truss of hell. The sets were ingenious, but rather like something built of tinkertoys, and all the slots and exposed structural parts confused the eye at first. The costumes in "Man and Superman" were properly played down in the interest of the play's intellectual content. Moritz's "Doe Guozumi" came off badly from a wretched sound reproducing system.

The AFA company, whose actors are performing in McCarter, is a young company. Actors who portray any character beyond the earliest middle-age are obliged to wear wigs (witness, most unfortunately, Mr. David as Ramsden) and the ladies, Miss Harris and Eve Roberts as "Violet," the secret wife, have no difficulty convincing the audience that they are irresistible.

The actors are fitted with zest as well as talent and are apparently a dedicated group of people. They have made a fine start here in Princeton, and it will be a treat to watch them as the season progresses.

"ANATOL" DELIGHTFUL.
Old Vienna Re-created by AFA. The second contribution by the Association of Producing Artists proved to be a delightful evening with a character named Anatol and his loves. The play with music was laid in Vienna at the turn of the century, but the conception was light and smooth—not overly sweet.

As adapted by Tom Jones from Lilly Lesding's translation, the Arthur Schultze play glided gaily through five enormous episodes in the life of the hero, "a toy philosopher" looking for life in love and vice-versa. Richard Easton played the part with verve and high humor, and portrayed the many-sided character with ease.

William Larsen, as Anatol's friend Max, acted as mediator and confessor for the love-torn youth, and bridge the episodes with song narrative, an occasionally limp device. At the piano, Conrad Susa did a workmanlike job in translating music from Offenbach into an anachronistic background, which created the atmosphere of old Vienna very well.

Further credit is due him for his support of the often weakened singing parts. The lack of talent in this respect was embarrassing at times, but the competence and enthusiasm of the entire cast more than offset the difficulty.

And now the Ladies. The five loves of Anatol ran the full course of temperament and feminine wiles, and never failed to amuse and charm the audience. Eve Roberts as Cora played on hilarious scene under hypnosis, and her operatic mouthings were marvelous.

As the ballerina with a "sentimental tummy," Joyce Ebert was almost unsharably cute, and she developed the "gay deceiver" motif with great wit and lively movement. Anatol's encounter with Gabrielle, a married woman wistfully played by Rosemary Harris, showed another side of the man with an infinite gift for love. The creation and destruction of the illusion of love was beautifully handled.

Appropriately, Anatol next appeared in his nightshirt with a ghastly hangover on the morning of his wedding day. Lashed in his bedroom was Blona, a former love to whom he succumbed. Jacqueline Brooks played the jealous actress-singer to the hilt, and her tantrums were top-notch.

Anatol ended his season as a love is only for the young, and the play closed with his life search for the Woman abandoned. The AFA did extremely well by Schultze's commentary on life and love, although the lyrics suffered badly in translation. The dialogue was reasonably smooth.

Ellis Rabb, the director, equalled his success as Jack Tinker in "Man and Superman," by maintaining a lively pace and smooth action. The period costumes were vivid, and enhanced the "old Vienna" atmosphere. A witty and unusual production, "Anatol" should have another chance at McCarter's stage.

HOLLOWAY A DELIGHT.
"A Cockney Cleverlie." The "grand old men of show business"—and Sankey Holloway, whatever his age, will be counted among them—have the difficult task of keeping in the right side of the wispy line that divides the nostalgia which is their stock in trade from the sentimentality which makes them somewhat embarrassing relics of an entertainment era perhaps better left in legend. Holloway, his feet planted firmly in the solid stuff of English folk humor, trod the line happily and with hardly a slip before a delighted near-capacity audience at McCarter Theatre Monday night.

The occasion was the Broadway tryout of his one-man show, "Laughs and Other Events." It was the first such "sneak preview" Princeton has been accorded in three years and —Continued on Page 8

IT'S NEW To Us

WHO DONE IT?

Peter Paul Probably, The Leopard's Head on Chambers Street likes to play cat-and-mouse with paintings whose artists are unknown, and the latest one they've found is an oil which they think is a study done by Rubens for his "St. Ambrose Banns the Entry of Theodosius into the Cathedral."

The work was sold many years ago as a Zurburan, but the Schusters, who own the Leopard's Head, suspected this designation, and sent their St. Ambrose to the world's leading authority on Zurburan, "Ridiculous," he said, or whatever authorities on Zurburan say when confronted with a non-Z. He told the Schusters that he suspected the work might be a Rubens.

It doesn't seem to be a copy, because it has bold, free lines not usually found in the work of even the best copyists. X-rays show that it is definitely 17th century; in fact the X-rays reveal faint, almost illegible writing which may, when photographed by infra-red light, turn out to be a signature. (It may, indeed, say "careful, use no hook").

In any case, it is detective work of the most exciting kind. The picture itself is worthy of the effort, with opulent blues and golds spiralling across St. Ambrose's robe in such dazzling colors that the gold almost seems metallic.

The picture has been given a rough cleaning. A very exciting buy.

Collectors whose modest walters aren't quite up to Rubens, may choose from a large collection of small ceramic pieces. These superb little contemporary vases were made in Sweden after the fashion of art work in the Sung dynasty, and they follow the style of that period, even to the glaze. Most of the vases are one to three inches tall, from $8. With each one, you get a certificate with the number of the piece, the city of its origin and the signature of the maker. (No X-ray needed.)

From Queen Anne's day, The Leopard's Head presents a jewel casket in burl yew, 16 inches long by 7 inches deep by 12 inches wide. Its interior is polished and painted wood with caviars and ladies lounging about, and its inside lid is all made of caviar wood, sometimes scratched with faint writing. There are minute drawers, and secret compartments and a $135 price tag.

a sort of two-way stretch, into two shops at both 8 and 10 Chambers.

We were drawn to this citadel of femininity by a collection of red undergarments, as eminently practical as anything we've seen in a long time. Girdle, panty, girdle, bra, half-slip, slip, gowns in the long and short of it, all red and ruffles. Scuffs to match are tucked nylon banded in red satin. Some have giant lace pom-poms. Looks like a warm winter.

For trousers, Edith's suggests a sheer white tricot panty, edged with lace and trimmed with a bouquet of lilies of the valley. Hanging from the bouquet by a blue ribbon is a real "gold" wedding ring.

The culotte appears in lingerie as a pair of full short pajamas in white tricot trimmed with red rickrack. (While corduroy duster matches). Again you find the culotte in pure silk, blue and turquoise floral print, with a straight half slip to match (under culottes) designed with loop fringe at the hem.

A myrtle blue ensemble consists of a long-sleeved gown with cuffs and Peter pan collar, bed jacket and culotte pajamas, all trimmed with narrow satin bands, flared bows and blue appliqued flowers. Blue, almost as popular at Edith's as red, appears again in the curving floral stripes of an ivory silk Hong Kong ensemble consisting of short-top pajamas and a matching robe which has a single continuous band around the neck and down both sides.

The robe of the season at Edith's is a splendid cream colored marshmallow of acrilan pile, cut like a coachman's robe and held with two baroque brass buttons. It's $45, and designed to be worn as an evening coat as well as a night coat.

The brie of the season is Warner's "European," a confection of white lace that has white lace straps lined with white satin. Even the back straps are white lace. It's wired like a grand piano and costs almost as much ($16.95), but talk about concert pitch!

No Tarnish

You can now buy Tiffany's tarnish-proof silver at LaVake-Rid's and when your friends ask why your silver is never tarnished, you can just reply that a layer of secret material has been deposited evenly and mysteriously over every time of every fork.

We are especially excited about the tests they put this silver through to make sure it was really tarnish proof. Talk about brain-washing! They left it eight hours in a beaker of 160-degree detergent water. Then they held a lighted cigarette against it for 10 minutes, got this, girls—actually brushing away the ashes to keep all the heat right on the silver. (How mean can you get?)

After this, they left some knives for eight hours in ethyl alcohol and methyl. No visible effect. (Not bad, not bad. We know some blades who can get pretty tarnished in eight hours.) Worst of all, they soaked several pieces for 72 hours in a vase containing decayed flower stems. Well!

"What did you do at work today, daddy?" "Well, I took this bouillon soup..."

was a sign of the almost incredible new theatrical vitality surrounding McCarter.

Assisted by an austere-looking two-piano team and a banjoist and oboist garbed as strolling players, Holloway projected the roughish, unsophisticated charm of a Cockney Maurice Chevalier — and even acknowledged the similarity in an unassuming vocal and visual imitation of the French boulevardier. Genuine wholesomeness and broad, sometimes almost Shakespearean humor were the order of the evening, whether Holloway was skipping through the tongue-twister, "I Went to the Park to Pick Poppies With Poppy," or leading the audience in singing about the "Fish and Chips Express."

No "Fair Lady" Material. It's too bad Holloway failed to win permission from the "My Fair Lady" producers to include in his show numbers like "Get Me to the Church on Time," he made his own during more than three years in the cast of the hit musical. The "Fair Lady" material shows him at his best, and the tunes were constantly called to mind during the evening.

Holloway's showmanship is so unlike that to which the modern theatre-goer is accustomed, remember that the last one-man show at McCarter was presented by the hyper-hip Shelley Bernstein that it took a few minutes for raptorial to be established between performer and audience. But by the time Holloway reached the poppy-picking, the crowd was his, and he handled them with skill. Audience participation there was, but not so much that it got to be a bore or a cheap substitute for entertainment. Change of pace was deftly handled and the actor's facility at creating characters was given full play.

He crossed into sentimentality only once — in a shoddy little recitation with music entitled "Brown Boots," the tale of a worker who showed up at a fancy funeral in brown footwear because he had lent his good boots to "a man who had none." This was presented with wretched schmaltz, with the low-key lighting which is a cliché even in bad movies, and with none of the sharp edge which gave several of the performer's other tales real warmth and poignance.

"Brown Boots" should probably be excised from the show, which is a little long as it stands. Hopefully it may be possible in the future to replace it with "Get Me to the Church" or "With a Little Bit of Luck." In any case it's only a minor lull in what is otherwise a thoroughly engaging and amusing entertainment.

THE PLAYHOUSE
Let's Make Love (October 5-11), as intriguing an invitation as the Playhouse will be offering this year, is the title of the new Marilyn Monroe showcase. In CinemaScope and color, the Jerry Wald film is a silly hodgepodge which shows scars from the major-rewrite job it had after Gregory Peck walked off the set and Yves Montand had to be substituted in the male lead. Miss Monroe, nonetheless, is still the films' most appealing blond and while her comic talents are not as much in evidence as they might be, her rendition early in the film of "My Heart Belongs to Daddy" will put you on her side for the rest of the evening.

Montand, a wealthy French playboy, hears that he is going to be satirized in an off-Broadway comedy and drops around to a rehearsal to see what it's all about. Immediately smitten by Mrs. Miller, he conceals his identity and is signed to play himself in the show. For purposes of plot Montand is put forth as rather a talentless slob, although in real life he is France's top all-around entertainer, a sort of wine-district Sinatra. This scriptwriter's folly makes his presence in the film a little unnecessary since he's not given a chance to use his impressive abilities. Some of the pros hired to teach him show business are entertaining in the kind of "cameo" appearances that have destroyed the believability of better pictures than this one.

 grettable film adaptation, in color, of the William Inge play, featuring Dorothy McGuire, Eve Arden and Robert Preston, who shouts continually as if he were still trying to sell trombones to the people of River City and Meredith Wilson to the last balcony. In the grabbag-of-misery style which was incited by Tennessee Williams' "Suddenly, Last Summer," the film includes two sexually disintegrated marriages, a young son who is afraid of the dark, a daughter who is terrified of boys, a Jewish cadet who commits suicide after a brush with anti-Semitism and the philosophy that all the world's problems would disappear if married couples would make love more often. This is tripe and does not deserve your attention. It is tripe not because it is immoral—which it is not especially—but because it is inferior soap opera. It is indifferently acted and Delbert Mann's direction is perceptive only in a few scenes involving the youngsters. There is no profundity here; only a tawdry attempt to give the appearance of profundity to an insane story about insignificant people by including naive psychology and conversation about sex. And in its own self-proclaiming adult manner, the denouement is as childish as "The Romance of Helen Trent" ever was.

THE GARDEN
 Lady Chatterley's Lover (October 3-8) is a shoddy little French product that capitalizes on the reputation, if not the competence, of the D. H. Lawrence novel. Lawrence's book, whatever your view of its literary merit, is at least a well-written and honest expression of the author's belief in self-fulfillment through the senses. This is a badly written and embarrassingly acted bit of minutiae that resembles the novel only in plot. In case you've forgotten, that concerns a paralyzed and impotent English lord, his frustrated wife and a handsome gamekeeper who does what he can for the poor girl.

Even thrill-seekers won't find this much of a buy; the censorship troubles the film had on its release in 1957 were concerned with its overall moral stance, rather than with any racy individual scenes. Danielle Darrieux is pretty in the pivotal role.

The Mouse That Roared (October 10-15) is an above-average presentation of as fine a satirical idea as the films have had in years. The plot, briefly, is this: Grand Fenwick, a European principality so tiny it makes Monaco look like the Eurasian Peninsula, is in financial straits. What better way to obtain funds, its leaders reason, than to start a war with America, lose and begin collecting foreign aid? Unfortunately, however, the rustic who has been put in charge of the 19-man army lands in Manhattan during an air-raid drill, finds the place deserted and manages to steal the super-powerful, football-shaped Q-bomb, the United States' ultimate weapon. Grand Fenwick has won the war and misery hangs over the fairy tale country like a cat-footed fog.

Peter Sellers, who doesn't want any chance for comparison to Alce Guinness to slip by, appears in three roles, as the bumbling farmer-general, the baughty but bawdy Quacken and, finally, only prime minister. While he is entirely competent, Sellers fails to excite in us the kind of rapturous delight that others have attributed to him during his current vogue. This is irrelevant, though, because "The Mouse That Roared" is a scriptwriter's tour de force. Without question it is the year's best political satire (How many political satires have you seen this year?) and one of its funniest pictures. In color. Recommended.

Appearing with "The Mouse That Roared" will be "The Golden Fish," an intriguing if somewhat self-conscious French short, which won an Academy Award last year. There is no dialogue.

September rainfall of 8.11 inches was more than double the normal figure of 3.61. High temperature for the month was 88 on the 1st, low was 44 on the 15th, but last Sunday, October 2, it dropped to a chill 37.

Three football fans at Saturday's Columbia game went to Princeton Hospital instead of Palmer Stadium after suffering bee stings—one was a boy who took a drink out of a pop bottle, only to find a yellow jacket had gotten there a little ahead of him—among the many unusual items offered for sale in this week's classified section (Pages 35-47) is the Kingston Post Office.

Mr. Marvel pointed out that stray dogs were a serious problem on Township property grounds. He will take up the Mayor's proposal with Borough Council and report. "That's one sure way to fill Township Hall," Mr. Marvel commented. "Just hold a public hearing on restraining dogs."

CANDIDATES SPEAK OUT
On Variety of Subjects. Cooperation between Borough and Township officials was the theme developed by both Republicans and Democratic candidates in statements issued this week. Areas of such cooperation ranged from the library referendum to the constitution of 206-A.

The GOP Borough candidates, Dr. Angus Austin and Dr. Ellwood Godfrey, declared themselves in favor of the library referendum, stating that "the question is a community issue rather than a political one." They pointed out that the referendum "does not include plans or a commitment for a new library building nor does it involve any stand on consolidation of the two municipalities."

"Planning is not a 'some-time thing,' but a necessary and continuing fact of Borough government. The first step is the strengthening of present cooperation between the Borough and Township Master Planning Boards. The second step is the tougher problem of continuing these plans with neighboring municipalities. The third step—and the most difficult," Mr. van de Velde emphasized, "is to make the plan stick no matter what immediate pressures arise."

Population Growth Cited. "The population explosion is a national reality," Mr. van de Velde continued, "and Princeton cannot escape the changes which inevitably accompany growth. In developing this point, Mr. Waldron stated, "We must make sure that we control expansion so that the people remain the masters, and do not succumb to easy solutions that put roads and automobiles before the human needs of the community."

"It is not enough," he went on, "to create and adopt a plan. We must continually resist expediency and short range goals. Whether we are local businessmen or commuters, whether we are home owners or rent apartments, we must insist on adherence to one long range goal: the preservation of Princeton's charm and historical heritage."

Five Goals Given. Republican candidates for Township Committee, R. Kenneth Fairman and Maurice F. Healy Jr., have set forth their platform, which pledges to continue the policies of the present Republican administration.

At the top of the list is "to cooperate fully with Borough officials to obtain as promptly as possible a commitment from the State Highway Department on the location and construction priority of Route 206-A, followed by "intensified efforts in conjunction with Borough officials to obtain from Mercer County the priority of plans for the construction of the southern portion of the proposed loop road."

The other three pledges cover the development of recreation facilities in Community Gardens, further strengthening of the Township administration to maintain efficient municipal services, and the continuation of the Committee's efforts to bring desirable light industry into the Township to create a more favorable tax structure for property owners.

According to the candidates, five of the seven points put forth during last year's successful campaign have been accomplished or are in the hands of appropriate agencies. Efforts are continuing and the two men believe title to the on the potable water problem, and the two men believe title to Community Gardens will be achieved by the end of the year.

HOFFMAN TO SPEAK

At U.N. Week Festival. Dr. Paul G. Hoffman, director of the United Nations Social Fund, will be principal speaker at the Interfaith Community Festival Program Sunday, October 23, in the Princeton University Chapel.

The Festival, signaling the beginning of the United Nations Week observance in Princeton, will be followed by a reception on the University campus. Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, Governor and Mrs. Meyer, Senator Clifford Case, and former Senator H. Alexander Smith are expected to attend the Festival program which will begin at 3 p.m.

Smoking Ban Worth $16,700

Princeton University announced this week that it was placing an immediate ban on smoking in all lecture halls and classrooms. The ruling, defined as an economy measure, applies to undergraduates and faculty alike.

The move will save an estimated $16,700 a year, President Robert F. Goheen said. He reported that cleaning costs directly traceable to smoking run $7,000 annually, while sanding and refinishing require another $9,000.

The eight-to-ten man preceptors, an integral part of the University's educational system, are not affected by the ban, Dr. Goheen expressed the "hope that in these smaller rooms, ashtrays will be used." There was no indication this week as to exactly who would enforce the prohibition or what penalty would be invoked for violations.

who travelled to Europe under the AFS program will also participate in the assembly.

During U.N. Week cafeteria menus in township schools will feature food specialties from a different country each day. Other exhibits and assemblies are also planned in local schools.

The United World Federalists of Princeton have made available a series of eight films dealing with the United Nations. Interested persons or groups may obtain all or one of the films by contacting Harland W. Hoisington Jr., 199 Longview Drive.

BOARD OF HEALTH MEETS

On Sewers, Brook Water. "How many difficulties do we have to have before we get a public necessity?" asked William Marvel, Township Committee representative on the Board of Health after the Township health officer reported to the Board of Health on Thursday night a second deficient septic system in the Rosedale Road - Galbreath Drive area.

"A system less than a year old is now draining into potable watersheds," stated Mrs. Marcia Farley, health officer.

The Board then passed unanimously a motion restating its recommendation. Township Committee that the sewer line be continued between Galbreath Drive East along Rosedale to Galbreath Drive West.

Star," "Spring Garden," "Six-point Star" or "Crazy Quilt" pattern, the price depending on the complexity of the pattern you choose. Prices start at $35. All the pieces are new, top-quality Den River cotton, the filling is wool, nylon or cotton batting in any weight you name, and all the quilts are machine washable.

In these days of electric blankets, most housewives will prefer to use the quilts as spreads, rather than as blankets, so the quilting is usually done over a layer of batting just thick enough to give body. However, if you want a heavier covering for a child's bed, possibly, or for a nap-robe, you may have any weight you wish.

From time to time, Mrs. Applegate will have one or two quilts in her store for display. If you want one of those, you may buy it. Or you may place a special order—waiting three months for its completion.

Sometimes an attic trunk will be full of half-completed quilts with their patches joined but not backed or quilted. If you have inherited one of these, the ladies of the church in this same Kentucky town, will finish the quilt in anyway you specify.

Call Mrs. Applegate at WA 1-6057 for additional information.

RUGS AND FURNITURE

At Two Stores. New furniture and rugs for fall are on display at the Rug and Furniture Mart on State Road and at the Ivy Manor branch in the Princeton Shopping Center.

Rugs at the highway store include a lush-pile all wool carpet in plain or hand-carved style in 30 different designs, all on display for your choice; a new Orlan textured nylon ($10.55 a square yard) shown at only 26 other stores in the country; a deep pile cotton in solids and tweeds for $5.95; a carpet in the velvet manner, available in 12 ft. or 15 ft. broadloom widths in many colors at $10.95 a square yard and a budget ($9.95) textured wool carpet called "Nassau Hall".

The Furniture Mart in the same building, is showing a solid cherry bedroom set for $389—chest-on-chest, double dresser, cannelball bed, night stand. And Western Carolina's Colonial line; left or right wing chair and three or four cushion sofa in down and down, springs or all-down, with a wide choice of Colonial fabrics. This is at Ivy Manor in the Shopping Center, also. Senly's Posturepedic mattress now comes in a tuftless or a quilted construction, $89.50 for the quilted, $79.50 for the plain. The Foam rubber set in Posturepedic is $129 per unit. Construction as firm as can be.

Brilliant colors have been used in some new modern pieces. Turquoise and lilac, deep and light violet, Kelly green and royal, deep raspberry—many with iridescent overtones—cover curved sectional pieces, a straight two-cushion couch and a club chair.

Bright colors, without the iridescence, appear again in the Kroehler line at Ivy Manor. Gold, myrtle blue-purple, flame and "vapor white" spark a walnut framed high-back chair, a couch, a sectional and a low back chair. All have been treated with Scotch guard spray to repel fingerprint and boot mark.

"Vercé"—that's the name of the line—also includes an in-bedroom furniture featuring blocks of dark and light woods laid, brick-fashion, along the sides of door or drawers. (This furniture uses "cultured wood," which is wood that has been squeezed and pressed into whatever hardness and shape the manufacturer thinks is a good idea. Resists warping and sticking. Kroehler uses it as core stock for doors, drawer fronts and cabinet tops.)

Budgeters will be interested in small-scale, small price furniture in modified Italian provincial style, with open fruitwood frames on couch and chairs. A square lamp table is $27.50.

Thoughts on the Canteen.

To The Editor of Town Topics: It is hard to believe that you have reported the Board of Education's true concerns about the H. S. Canteen fairly. According to your report, the Board of Education wants the Canteen Council and Sponsors' Board to assure them that there will be no infraction of rules and no disciplinary problems.

Can it be that people aware of school disciplinary problems would think that something magic happens to those same teen-agers when they come to the Canteen? Would they be willing to guarantee to anyone, honestly, that there would never be disciplinary problems in Princeton High School?

It seems to me the most that can fairly be asked of the Canteen is what the Board of Education would expect of a school — that there be reasonable rules, and that those in charge make every attempt to make them known and enforces them. And, then that they expect problems as you expect them at school.

It is unrealistic to think that some high school boys and girls in our society will never take a drink and, at least try to crash a dance when they do not belong. It seems to me that anyone attempting to fill a great teen-age need with a canteen would make a great mistake not to expect these incidents and be prepared to handle them in a calm, mature fashion.

It must be confusing to teenagers who live in a community where adults kick up their heels frequently and, on at least one occasion (reunion), the whole town turns out to enjoy watching the adults. The confusion then must be great when some of these same adults are so shocked that on an average of once every two years they threaten to close the Canteen because of such things as finding an occasional liquor bottle.

Teen-agers must wonder what is really bothering these adults for they know all too well that without a Canteen there would be far more liquor bottles, etc. (though perhaps not in such obvious places).

One can't help wishing that the Board of Education would use more realistic and positive measures to improve the canteen and that the parents would do likewise. I can recall when an average of 40 and 50 parents had to be called each and every week in order to get six couples to chaperone. I also can recall times when parents came to chaperone reeking of liquor.

My plea is that we do our best to help teen-agers wait a few more years to copy their elders' behavior if they must. And, that we give our time, talents and energy to make the High School Canteen meet the needs of Princeton teen-agers in the best possible fashion.

PAT CRISCIHELLO
(Mrs. John Criscitello)
Mill Road, Princeton Junction.

Board's Decision Questioned.
To The Editor of TOWN TOPICS:...

I am releasing for publication the following letter to the Borough Board of Education:

"The release to the newspapers on the deferment of permission to hold the Teen Canteen at the Nassau Street School seemed unnecessarily caustic.

"It would like to see the Board of Education and the Community of Princeton more willing to use the public schools for the benefit of the children. There is little enough offered in this community for teenagers to have clean, good, simple fun.

"As a former member of the Adult Sponsor Board, I would like to say that parents, police, and the community should give every support to these men and women who give untold hours and dedicated enthusiasm to make the Canteen work. The Teen Canteen officers and members work diligently to uphold the standards of the Canteen.

"The violations sighted in the newspaper would be serious were they prevalent. Anyone knows that when you have a large group of people together someone may misbehave. Even in our excellent school system, there are departures from rules and regulations that the Board of Education and the Administration seek to enforce.

"Does the Board of Education close the school? In our own homes, when teenagers have parties, there may be one or two young people who must be asked to leave because of misconduct.

"In my two years of working with the Canteen, I had continuing admiration for the willingness of the boys and girls to accept responsibility for their own conduct.

"Everyone regrets misbehavior by any member of the group. But what we want is faith in these young people, public support of the adults who help them, and a desire on the part of public authorities to work with and for them.

"I appreciate the sense of responsibility of the members of the Board of Education, but I sincerely hope they will give due consideration to the welfare of the children and their need for recreation. The entire group should not be punished because of the misbehavior of a few."

public necessity," the Board stated.

In the past, there has been objection to this sewer on the part of residents whose septic systems are functioning properly.

Mr. Farley also told the Board that a property owner on Hillside Avenue, an area designated as "high priority" for sewer construction, sold his house without telling the new buyer that the water was not drinkable. Mrs. Farley said that none of the houses on Hillside has a chlor-inator and that all house-holders on that street either boil their water or import it in cans from outside. She suggested that inexpensive individual chlorinators would be a preferable solution. In addition, Mrs. Farley mentioned a landlord on lower Alexander Street who rented his house for $180 a month to three graduate students. Mrs. Farley, inspecting the house after complaint, found an open cesspool, an open latrine and a yard swampy with overflow. She evicted the three tenants and declared the house unfit for human habitation. Following her remarks, the Board decided to consider the possibility of requiring a Board of Health certificate before property could be sold or rented. Such a requirement will probably be considered as part of the Housing Code, when it is introduced at a later date.

Thanks to the Homemakers: To The Editor of Town Topics: Because "Good works" seldom get the recognition they deserve, I want to express publicly my appreciation to the Princeton Community Homemaker Service for the help I have been getting during my wife's illness. In response to a telephone request, Mrs. Barbara Stratton, Director of the Homemaker Service, arranged for a homemaker to be at my home each day from 3 to 5 p.m. In this way my two children have been under adult supervision from the time they returned from school until my return from the office.

My homemaker has shown that she can "take over." She knows what things need doing, and she does them. She washes the dishes, makes the beds, launders, and touches up the children's clothing. She even prepares supper for the family when I ask her to do so.

Although those who use the Homemaker Service pay the homemaker on an hourly basis (about $1.20 an hour), I think that it is important to remember that administrative costs of the service are borne by the Princeton United Community Fund and by the Kiwanis Club of Princeton.

Kiwanis merits commendation for initiating the Homemaker Service and for its continuing interest in the program.

The current fund-raising effort of the United Fund deserves our generous support, for not only does Fund aid the Homemaker Service but 17 other agencies, as well. Our contributions make it possible for each of these agencies to do a vital job in the community throughout the year.

Senator Clifford L. Case should be re-elected to the United States Senate for two principal reasons: (1) he offers an outstanding record as a Senator and as a Congressman; and (2) with the Democrats having such a large majority in the Senate at this time, it is essential that forward-looking, up-to-date Republicans be kept in Washington if the two-party system is to remain effective.

Although Senator Case's opponent, Thörn Lord, is an experienced lawyer and able political leader, he cannot compare with Case with regard to Federal legislative experience. Senator Case began in the New Jersey Assembly, was elected to the House of Representatives four times, and is now finishing his sixth year in the Senate - a total of 14 years in the Congress.

Senator Case is one of those all too rare individuals in our society - a truly independent public servant. He is able to free himself from the pressures and commitments which often jeopardize the objectivity of those in elected office. When he votes on a bill, one can be confident that he has reached his decision after careful consideration of all aspects of the question, to determine what is in the best interest of all the country, and not just one group or even one party.

Senator Case was, for instance, one of the minority of Senators who voted against the Pork Barrel Bill - not an easy thing to do in political life. He came out in support of Governor Rockefeller's "platform" of last May even before Vice President Nixon had publicly accepted most of the assumptions of that platform. Case did this in the face of certain criticism from within his own party, and at the risk of alienating segments of financial support necessary to his forthcoming campaign.

Senator Case is also a realist, both in terms of his own party's position in this country, and in terms of his country's position in the world. He has always been among those Republicans who have led their party towards an ever growing appreciation of the need to moderate their basic tenets in both the domestic and international fields: to recognize that in an increasingly complex society it is no longer possible to rely only on the individual and private enterprise, that the Federal Government has a valid, if limited, role to play in our private lives; and to recognize that our country must assume a real obligation for the well-being of the rest of the world through strong foreign aid and mutual security programs.

The acceptance of this more "liberal" - if you will - concept of the Republican Party by Republicans was dramatically demonstrated by Case's overwhelming victory over Robert Morris this spring. For the good of the Republican Party it is essential that such an able spokesman for this concept of Republicanism be supported to strengthen the liberal position and increase its acceptance within the party.

But Senator Case should not have the support of Republicans alone. He should also be supported by independents, more interested in good government in Washington than in the success.

"Newsweek" magazine, issue of October 3, 1960, carried a significant article featuring the national voter registration drive by the Democratic Party. Voter registration has been so successful right here in Mercer County that its merit has now achieved national recognition, and Mercer County has been acclaimed as the effective proving ground of the registration program. Its success here is conceded by all to be attributable to the extraordinary ability of Thörn Lord, who is seeking election as United States Senator from New Jersey.

The foregoing is a concrete example of Thörn Lord's exceptional leadership and competence. It demonstrates what he can do if given the opportunity. It is exciting to contemplate his undertaking a task in the United States Senate, having as its objective the completion and realization of one or more of the progressive planks of the Democratic Platform or the execution of some far-sighted policy or project advanced by a Democratic President. All of us have felt a certain confidence in dealing with competent, reliable people, and we all have experienced the comfortable feeling that we could depend on favorable results from those individuals. That is the feeling I have about Thörn Lord.

Incidentally, in mentioning the Democratic Platform, I should like to point out that Mr. Lord was a member of the national Democratic Platform Committee both in 1956 and in 1960. He helped draft it and he is thoroughly familiar with its contents and its goals.

He is a strong supporter of Civil Rights and is vigorously in favor of including medical care for the aged in the Social Security program.

He is firm in advocating aid to education. His aim is world peace and, knowing his gentlemanly disposition personally, I can well understand this. Since these are among the first matters that Senator Kennedy intends to further if he should be elected President, Mr. Lord's election to the United States Senate would be of great value and assistance to the President.

By contrast, the Republican candidate for the United States Senate, Clifford P. Case, would be of no assistance to the President, nor to the people of New Jersey. He does not stand in the highest favor with the majority of his own party, and his record in the United States Senate is by no means exemplary.

On the other hand, the other United States Senator from New Jersey, Harrison A. Williams Jr., a Democrat, although elected just two years ago, has already established a good record and has attained prominence for his outstanding work in the migrant farm labor field. New Jersey can rest assured that if Thörn Lord is elected, he, too, will promptly turn in a brilliant and efficient effort for his country and his state.

Having alluded to Mr. Lord's personality, I might add that this man is intelligent, sensitive.

of one particular party. Whoever wins the Presidential election, the Democrats will still have a large majority in the Senate. For the good of the country, we will need a substantial number of intelligent, responsible and modern-minded Republicans who will support the Democratic majority when they deserve it, and furnish effective opposition when the occasion demands—and of course to take forceful leadership in implementing a Nixon program if the Vice-President wins. Senator Case is this type of Republican. Good government in this country depends in no small measure on the strength of the minority party of the moment; and when the Republican Party, as the present minority, is fortunate enough to have a man of Case's outstanding qualifications and experience in the Senate, the country should continue to enjoy the benefit of his services.

His leadership of the Democratic Party in Mercer County has been truly democratic. He has no hesitancy in yielding to the will of the majority and for the common good of all.

Indeed, because I have pride in my party, I want it to select the best candidates to represent it, so that I can feel proud and eager to accept those candidates and so that those candidates would be acceptable to independent voters as well. I am completely satisfied that Thorn Lord is such a candidate.

TOWNSHIP PLUMBING FEE? Plumbers Frederick Princeton gathered almost en masse on Thursday night to protest the Township Board of Health's proposal to apply strictly the permit section of the state's plumbing code. The petition has had plumbing inspectors to do the job. Since the appointment of Gene Keller as inspector, however, and specifically since September 1, 1960, the Board of Health has felt that it could be so to satisfy the letter of the code to Princeton's plumbers at work in the Township.

According to the Board of Health's application of the code, a plumber is now required to obtain a $2 permit and then pay a $50 inspection fee after a job is completed.

"If I had to add $12 to a $15 job, I wouldn't want to be on the receiving end of the phone when the client called," commented Joseph J. Redding, of J.B. Redding and Son, 234 Nassau.

Other plumbers pointed out that the $2 fee alone would cost a plumber time and money in obtaining individual permits for many small jobs, in bookkeeping and in client litigation.

Fred E. Cruser, Jr., of 501 Ewing, suggested that inspection be eliminated unless the actual code of a fixture were changed or the pipes changed.

The code does not require permits for small repairs, such as a clog or valve repair or for replacement, unless the pipes have to be re-arranged.

Norton C. Jefferson of Cherry Valley Road, told the Board of Health that it might be better to go out after so-called "moonlighters" or unlicensed plumbers who compete with Princeton firms by coming into town after dark with a station-wagon full of equipment, doing jobs in a hurry at low rates, then skipping town.

Mr. Redding pointed out that the Borough spot-checks small plumbing jobs, and he suggested that a total inspection system for all plumbing jobs was an affront to a licensed master plumber. "We work on our honor," he said.

The Borough requires a flat $50-a-year license which covers all work done by a plumber. "That would be the real objection to following Borough policies," asked Dr. Erling Dorf of the Board of Health.

To Study Problem. At the suggestion of Dr. Archibald D. Sheeran, chairman of the Board of Health, Mr. Redding agreed to form a committee which would meet with Mr. Keller and with Dr. William Kleinberg of the Board to "come up with something acceptable."

Mr. Redding appointed Mr. Jefferson, Joseph Miller of Culligan, Water Conditioning of Princeton, and Edward McVaugh of Emens and McVaugh, Rocky Hill. The committee is scheduled to hold its first meeting this week.

Mrs. Marcella Farley, acting health officer of the Township.

said that licensed plumbers had complained to her that unlicensed men who were not plumbers at all, were allowed to install heating units, air-conditioners and so on, without having to pay the plumbers' fee.

The Board then passed a resolution stating that no permit will henceforth be required for plumbers who install air-conditioners or heating units. This is a temporary interpretation which will stand until the Board of Plumbing Examiners reviews the code with Mr. Redding's committee.

FUND REPORTS INCREASE

In Stockholders, Assets. A steady increase in stockholders' shares outstanding, net asset value per share has been reported by the Nassau Fund on the occasion of its third anniversary. For detailed information on the state of the Fund, see page 21.

The Fund hopes to introduce on January 1 an "Accumulation Plan" under which a subscriber may invest as little as $50 per month, per quarter, or even sporadically, as finances permit. In addition, Nassau Fund shares, including fractional share credits.

Harland W. Holzinger, president of the Fund, feels that this is a convenient and economical plan for a small investor, relieving him of concern with market highs and lows because of the dollar-averaging feature inherent in the plan. The plan will include automatic re-investment of all Nassau Fund dividends in fractional Nassau Fund shares and fractional share credits.

MUSIC In Princeton
SEASON TO OPEN MONDAY
With Philadelphia, Eugene Ormandy and the Philadelphia Orchestra will open the 1960-61 Princeton University Concerts series Monday at 8:30 p.m. with a program consisting of works by Bach, Schubert, Richard Strauss and Lukas Foss. The concert is the first in Series I, which is sold out by subscription.
For an opening concert, Mr. Ormandy will conduct his own transcription of Johann Christian Bach's Minuet in D, the Schubert Fifth Symphony, a symphonic suite from Strauss' music for "Der Rosenkavalier", and a Concerto for Improvisation Solo Instruments and Orchestra by the contemporary composer and pianist, Lukas Foss.

Other concerts in Series I will present Pierre Fournier, French cellist on November 7; the Cleveland Orchestra on February 6; the pianist John Browning on March 6 and Leopold Simoneau, French tenor, on April 16. Fifty string room tickets will be sold at the box-office after 7:30 p.m. on concert evenings.

Series II, for which some tickets are still available, will present Isaac Stern on October 24, the pianists Vera Apollon and Michael Field on November 21 (joined by two percussionists to perform the Bartok sonata; the harpsichordist, Ralph Kirkpatrick on January 9; Adele Addison on January 23 and the Juilliard Quartet with violinist Walter Trampler for quintet music on March 20.

QUARTET TO PLAY
For Friends of Music, The Lenox Quartet, which has served as quartet-in-residence for the Tangeman and Princeton Seminars in contemporary music, will be heard Sunday at 3:30 p.m. in the McCosh Hall on the University campus in the first concert given by the Friends of Music at Princeton.

The quartet will play the Haydn Quartet in B Flat Major, Opus 76, No. 4 ("Sunrise"); the String Trio by Arnold Schoenberg and the Schubert String Quartet in A Minor, Opus 29. This will be the first public performance in Princeton of the Schoenberg work.

Howard Taubman of the New York Times, writing after the New York debut of the Lenox Quartet last November, said "... they will be a force in the world of contemporary music," and Paul Henry Lang of the New York "Herald Tribune" said that they performed "with sympathy and competence." Their Princeton appearance will be open to the public without charge.

Joint Library Urged
In a pamphlet issued by the Princeton Public Library, voters are urged to cast their ballots in favor of the joint referendum proposing a Borough-Township Library this November.

"In practice, the public library has been operated as a joint library with equal shares by all Borough and Township residents almost continuously since it was founded in 1909, and since 1953 the two municipalities have shared library operating costs," the statement issued by the trustees and advisory committee reads.

The benefits which would result from a joint library include improvement of library services with planning for expansion, equal representation and control, and increased returns per tax dollar. William D. Purcell, superintendent of Township Schools adds, "The expansion of library services for the two communities will aid the schools in teaching both the research and collection uses of the library." Copies of the pamphlet are available at the library.

POSTAL RECEIPTS SOAR
Three Times National Average.
From 1950 to 1960, U.S. Postal Department revenue has climbed over 50 percent. During the same seven-year period, Postmaster Charles F. Murray has revealed that revenue from the Princeton Post Office has spiraled by more than 140 percent.

The nation's mail volume, which is increasing faster than its population growth, reached an all time high last year when an estimated $3.6 billion pieces of mail were processed. This increased volume up 25 percent over 1953 — occurred while the postal employment for the same period was increasing only 11 percent. By 1970, it is expected that the annual mail volume will be more than 50 billion pieces.

While overall employment in the nation's post offices has not risen proportionately with the increase in the volume of mail, there has been a substantial increase in the number of city carriers since 1953. City delivery service has been started in 800 communities and hundreds of other routes already in operation have been expanded. To serve approximately nine million more Americans and upwards of 200,000 more business concerns, 31,000 additional letter carriers have been employed.

NEW DIVISION FORMED
By Chamber of Commerce. A Real Estate and Insurance Division has been organized as part of the Greater Princeton Chamber of Commerce. John H. Houghton is chairman, with Charles H. Draine to serve as vice-chairman.
Members of the steering committee, in addition to Mr. Houghton and Mr. Draine, are Joseph A. Goehler, John T. Henderson, Foster D. Jermon, Helen Van Cleave and Peg Wangler.

TRUE TEST AHEAD

Against Penn Saturday. Having rolled back an overconfident and over-rated Columbia team, 49-0, Princeton's football forces will invade Franklin Field in Philadelphia Saturday to show whether their new-found ability will attain some degree of permanence. Game-time is 1:30, half an hour earlier than October kickoffs in Palmer Stadium.

A somewhat deflated but nonetheless dangerous Pennsylvania team will provide the opposition. For the Quakers, the 1960 season hangs in the balance; having been upset last weekend by Dartmouth, 15-0, and confronted by Princeton, the team they always want most to defeat, it will be difficult to pick up the pieces if they lose this one.

Under one-time Princeton coach John Slegman, Penn is now operating out of the single wing. Accordingly, Saturday's meeting between the two will be the only Ivy League battle of the season featuring two teams with this attack and the first since Penn manager departed the Penn campus eight years ago.

The Quakers appeared to be off to a good start in their conversion from Steve Sebo's split T to the single wing when they easily triumphed over Lafayette, 35-14, but they ran into a real ambush at Hanover. Biggest tip-off on their difficulties was the major problem they had on the attack: a mere 20 yards gained rushing and a big zero on the scoreboard.

Captain George Koval, who threw eight touchdown passes as a quarterback last season when Penn was winning the Ivy championship, has been lost for a month with a severe knee sprain suffered in the loss to Dartmouth. This will create a manpower problem at the tailback slot, key position in the single wing.

THE HOLE WAS THERE: A good-sized gap in the Columbia line is evidence of Princeton's solid blocking in Saturday's 49-0 conquest of the New Yorkers. Tailback Jack Sullivan hurtles through tackle at 3:50 of second period for Tigers' third touchdown as Lion captain Bob McGool (50) moves vainly to close the gap.

There's a problem at quarterback, too, where a former guard, 196-lb. Connie Desantis, had been slated to take over on his blocking ability. A sophomore, Dick Meyer, has moved in ahead of him, and last week's whitewashing is proof that the conversion to a new offense is understandably taking time.

Quakers Will Be Eager. Because victory over Princeton is the biggest goal of the season for Penn's team and its backers, Saturday's out will be a major goal for the Red and Blue. If a second straight defeat in Ivy action is pinned on the Quakers, it will virtually eliminate them from any chance of repeating as champions in a league that has no clear-cut favorite.

Possibly Penn's best back is Porter Shreve, a 200-lb. underdog for Koval at tailback. He is definitely the Quakers' top runner; if his shoulder injury is better, his passing may give Penn the spark it needs. In a contest where all carriers will see action include wingback Pete Schmitz, who scored both Penn's touchdowns in last year's 18-0 victory in Palmer Stadium; sophomore Mike Ruggieri, 196-lb. fullback; and Ed Shaw, a standout at that position last year whom Ruggieri has displaced.

COLUMBIA TRIUMPHED

As Tigers Click Perfectly. Repeated Columbia comments to the effect that it would beat Princeton for the first time in 15 years backfired loudly in Palmer Stadium Saturday afternoon. In a contest that saw the winning team do everything right and the losers commit one costly mistake after another, the Tigers broke the game open early and went on to record the biggest margin to separate the teams since the turn of the century.

Two primary factors cheered Princeton partisans: a hard pass blocking by both the line and backfield that was missing in the loss to Rutgers; and a daring attack that was a complete transformation of the ineptness against the Scarlet. In the latter department, the Tigers were 9 for 12, whereas a week earlier they had been a horrendous one for ten. The touchdowns, notably Jack Sullivan (see "We Congratulate") had a field day. When Sullivan was resting between his hour-and-a-half performances, Hugh Scott was averaging 5.3 yards per carry and completing two of three aerials; and sophomore George Riley was running impressively and connecting on three out of four pitches. Riley, already a defensive standout, has a bright future ahead of him.

One of the visitors' expensive errors cost them possession early in the game, a holding penalty nullifying a nine-yard gain and forcing them to punt after they had given evidence of a good running attack. Sullivan ripped off a 15-yard return to the Princeton 36 and a dozen plays later the Tigers racked up their first score on a wedge by Captain Dick Kornrumpf from two yards out.

picked an alley down the right sideline for an 83-yard punt return that saw superb Princeton blocking. Not a Columbia player was within ten yards of the Tiger safetyman after he had passed midfield.

Sure placekicks by sophomore Dave Goudin made it 24-0 with no more than 10:41 of the game gone, and the Tigers rolled up the score from there. Another Columbia error, a fumble that guard Jerry Norton recovered on the losers' 21, set up the third TD run a short pass into the flat that invariably goes to a touchdown when intercepted did just that when reserve quarterback Bill Laird picked one off at 8:41 of the second quarter.

JACK SULLIVAN
Princeton Tailback

One touchdown in the opening period is no insignificant handicap but a second well before the quarter is over comes close to demoralizing a team. When Jack Sullivan raced 83 yards down the right sidelines in Palmer Stadium Saturday for Princeton's second score in less than 11 minutes, he all but broke the game open right there.

It was the 165-lb. senior's second scoring punt return in the young season, and served notice that a block or two is all he needs to become the Ivy League's top broken-field runner this season. On more than one occasion in the 49-0 rout of the thoroughly surprised Lincolnton, he waited a split second for his interference and then reversed his course beautifully as the tacklers over-ran him.

Sullivan had the biggest day of his three year career on the field. In 11 carries, he gained 123 yards for a spectacular 11.2 average; on five pass attempts, he completed four; he contributed to the Tigers' five 42-yard punting average; and he scored two of touchdowns. Small wonder he was named to the All-East team for the week and was chosen as the Ivy League's Back of the Week.

Neither of the past two seasons has been a bright one for the Kent School alumnus as injury and illness have sidelined him with considerable frequency. Two years ago, a leg injury in the Penn game hobnobed him during his sophomore year; last fall, he missed the first part of the season because of a recurrent virus.

Sullivan's ability extends to baseball, a sport he captained as a freshman and won a starting vacancy berth in as a sophomore centerfielder. The illness that plagued him most of last year kept him off the diamond last spring but hopes are he'll be back as a senior.

In common with the other juniors and seniors on this year's squad, Jack remembers all too clearly Pennsylvania's 18-0 victory here last fall. As the startling tailback on Franklin Field Saturday, he'll do his best to reverse that outcome, and to give Princeton a far better start in the Ivy League race than had seemed possible a brief two weeks ago.

Sports In Princeton

The scoring was completed with three more touchdowns in the third quarter: a ten-yard pass from Scott to end Jim Bier; a 19-yard punt around left end by Scott (following a 12-yard interception return by tackle Clark Woolley); and a burst through tackle from two yards out by Riley.

Now the Tigers head for Philadelphia with the awareness that the game is a major directional point. If they win, it is possible that a team for which repetition of last year's 4-5 record seemed a strong possibility might go into November with a solid 5-1 mark. If they lose to a Penn eleven still very much in the formative stages, the victory over inflated Columbia may prove to be just a fling in the pan.

Physically, the Tigers began the week in good shape. Guard Ed Meyer, who left the game after the opening kickoff with an internal injury, may not play but Matt Tiberner, who missed the Columbia contest, will be back in action.

Off their great improvement between the Rutgers and Columbia games, and Penn's sputtering at Lincolnton, the Tigers must be favored. If they can justify such optimism, October football around here should be a lot more appealing than seemed likely a couple of weeks ago.

THIS FUTURE LOOKS BRIGHT
Team Impressive In 2nd Win. If Princeton High School's football team can win its next game—it will engage a visiting Leonardo High eleven from Middletown at Harris Field Friday at 3:15—it could quite possibly continue through its remaining four games undefeated.

Last season, the Little Tigers lost Trenton High and lost twice to win the mythical Mercer County title with a 2-2 record. Both defeats came at the hands of larger schools outside Mercer County, one at Somerville, a school PHS does not meet this year. The second Blue and White setback, its first in 1959 after it had won its first two, was administered by a tough Leonardo outfit—Friday's opponent. The stage is set again. Will history repeat itself?

Aside from two blocked punts, one of which led to its opponent's only score, PHS had things pretty much its own way in its home opener Friday when it defeated

Freehold, 20-6, before an appreciative high school crowd. Although he didn't score, co-captain Russ Perone, in action for the first time, rushed 43 and 28 yards to set up two quick PHS touchdowns in the second quarter. Midway in the third period, the home team picked up another TD on the running of Gil Fisher and Bob Salter to widen its lead over the game but ineffective Blue and gold eleven.

The home team began inauspiciously enough. In the game's opening minutes, Willie Pace blocked Perone's attempted punt and teammate Patrice Roe recovered the loose ball for Freehold on the PHS 20. The scoring opportunity aborted, however, with a back in motion penalty and a mix-up in the Freehold backfield on fourth down.

Dalle Pezze Recovers. Unable to move, PHS was forced to punt for the third time early in the second period. Perone's boot was fumbled by Freehold on its own 43 and recovered by center John Dalle Pezze. On the second play from scrimmage, Perone went —Continued on Page 30

PIRATE BOOSTERS ALL: Barbers Danny Pearl (left) and Mike Meyer pick the Pittsburgh Pirates to beat the Yanks in the World Series this year, both saying that the National League champions have the better pitching staff. Rudy Clemens, a confessed Yankee-hater since 1936, hopes the Pirates would win the Yanks for sentimental reasons, but says reality forces him to take the tack that the Yankees have too much power at the plate and will win in six.

Question of the Week

Question: Who do you think will win the World Series and how many games do you think it will last?

Where asked: Around town.

Danny Pearl, 22 Wayne Avenue, Trenton, barber, Durner's Barber Shop: I think Pittsburgh will win in seven games and it will be the Pirate pitching staff that will beat the Yanks. The Yankees are the more consistent hitters, but throw a good pitcher against them and you'll see how meek they become. Look at Lary, for example, he's beaten them 11 out of 16. The Pirates from top to bottom are dangerous at the plate.

Rudy Clemens, Kennedy House, teacher at Lawrenceville School: I think the Yankees in six games, but I'm sentimental toward Pittsburgh and I hope they get back at the Yankees for that 1927 debacle when they lost four straight. The Yankees have too much power—Mantle, Maris and Skowron can each hit the long ball. I've been a Yankee-hater since 1936 but they always win, they are simply too tough in their own stadium. I'm a frustrated Senator fan, myself.

Mike Meyer, 27 Witherspoon Street, barber, Durner's Barber Shop: I think Law and Friend will upset the Yanks. The Yanks have a good team and good hitters, no question about that. But the Pirates, in my opinion, have the edge in pitching and they have some good hitters, too. If Law and Friend stand up, they should win two games and if Mizell comes through in relief, the Pirates should take it. It will go over four, probably five or six, but I don't think it will go seven.

Larry Healy, 49 Aiken Avenue, proprietor, Durner's Barber Shop: I hope Pittsburgh does and I like to see them do it in four straight but I think the Series will go six. Pittsburgh is a young team and they have been fighting all season. They might get some stage fright early in the Series which could cost them a couple of games, but once they find out the Yanks aren't invincible, they'll go to work.

David Hanser, Palmer Square, film editor: I've been a Yankee fan all my life and I think the Yanks will win in six. They are used to the pressure of a World Series.

Mrs. Hector Griswold, 291 Russell Road, housewife: I expect the Yankees to win in four games. The Yanks have a very good organization; it's well run and I just don't see them losing. I'm a Yankee fan from way back.

John Maier, Hart Avenue, Hopewell, carpenter: Yankees definitely, in five games. Pittsburgh will win the third game and then it will be all over but the shouting. The Yanks have the better hitting, especially in the clutch. Pittsburgh has as much or more hustle than the Yankees, and they're probably a lot more anxious to win, but I still think the Yankees have too much for them.

Prince Venable, Highway 27, Janitor: Pittsburgh, but it will take them all seven games to do it. I think the Pirates have the better hitters and an all-around better playing team than New York.

Rome Wukirchen, 130 Longview Drive, representative for the Linguaphone Institute: The Yanks in four straight. They had to battle so hard at the end of the season that they are in shape now and ready to go. And don't forget they have a great manager named Casey Stengel who is always an edge in World Series competition.

Regina Prendergast, 12 Griggs-Low, seventh grade student at St. Paul's School: I hope Pittsburgh wins in six games possible because I hate the Yankees. I think they're dirty players.

Walter Walls, 60 Clay Street, maintenance superintendent: I think Pittsburgh will win the first one behind Law and then go on to take it in five. I feel the Yanks have the better pitching staff. The Yankees have been going pretty good, winning their last 22 in a row, but you don't know how long that will last. They're been up and down all season. Pittsburgh has been hitting with more consistency. The only way I figure the Yanks could win it is if Casey would retire and the Yanks would go all out to win it for him. I think the Yanks are a thing of the past. This is something that the fans in Pittsburgh have waited for, for a long time.

Earl Farley, 129 Villanova Drive, Lawrence Township, owner of welding shop: I want Pittsburgh to win but the Yankees are going to come out on top. Don't ask me how they do it, but they always win. In weight, height and strength they're equal. What gives the Yanks that extra something when they're down and almost out? Is it their manager, or what? It's something we need a change. I think the Series will go the full seven games.

Richard Asche, Patton Hall, University freshman: Pittsburgh in six. I've picked the Pirates for the past two years and this year I think they have the right combination of pitching, fielding and hitting. The only way the Yanks will make it close is through their experience in World Series play.

FISHER SCORES: Tailback Gil Fisher tallies the Little Tigers' third touchdown late in the third quarter from the one-foot line in Princeton High's 20-6 win over Freehold Friday at Harris Field. In two carries Fisher had advanced the pigskin from the 50 to the 14-yard line to spark the successful drive.

over tackle, came to his left, and dashed down the sidelines before being pushed out of bounds on the one-foot line. Fullback Howard Gould then bucked over for the tally and kicked the extra point to put PHS in front, 7-0.

Three plays later the Little Tigers scored again after defensive tackle Jack Britten had fallen on Freehold's second fumble in a row on its own 12. Peroni lost a yard attempting to pass, but, on the next play, was off on a 23-yard romp down field to the locker's 14. Running like scared gazelle, sophomore Bob Salter covered the remaining 14 yards, circling left end, to score his first PHS touchdown. Gould again added the PAT to up the score 14-0 at halftime.

Princeton High's final stopper was set up by Charles Pemberton who returned a Freehold punt to the visitor's 40. In two running plays, Fisher advanced the ball to the 11. Salter then carried to the three from where Fisher, three plays later, went over for the 20th point. This time, Gould's extra point try hit the goalpost.

Freehold, half beaten by Princeton and half by itself, did its best to hand its conqueror another opportunity to score. A low pass from center on a punt attempt ended with the Blue and White in possession, first and 10 on the Freehold 15. But the defense held, and taking over on its own nine, The Blue and Gold moved 71 yards to the Little Tiger 20, where Allen Wood intercepted a pass to end the threat.

The losers finally scored late in the game when linebacker Leung Cles broke through, blocked a punt, and recovered the ball on the PHS 10. From the 10, Larry Brown, who had done most of the ground gaining for Freehold, scampered around end for the score. The PAT try was blocked.

HUN BLANKED IN OFFENSE
By Pennington School, suffering an unexpected and disappointing defeat in its opener last week, the Hun School football team will play its first of four home games Saturday, opposing Perkiomen at 2:30. Like Hun, Perkiomen was stopped cold in its opening game, losing to Malvern, 41-0, which prompted Hun coach Hawley Waterman to remark: "They must be in our league."

For the second consecutive year, a promising Hun eleven has been an opening-game victim of neighboring Pennington School. Coach Harold Poore's squad which upended Hun last year, 24-6, was anything but neighborly Saturday as it again demonstrated its mastery, scoring one in every period to defeat the visitors, 25-0. "I don't know what to say" was all that Waterman could muster following the game in which Hun failed to complete one pass in 11 attempts and managed to cross the midfield strip only twice.

Hun received the opening kick-off but, from the onset, according to Waterman, "couldn't make its best plays go. We just couldn't advance the ball. Their line was outchargin' ours on both offense and defense," said Waterman.

Pennington, for its part, had little difficulty in mounting an attack. At the end of five minutes, the Red Raiders had moved 72 yards in 11 plays to score their first six-pointer. The touchdown came on a nine-yard pass, Quarterback Dave Duhle to end Ron Crosse.

Duhle Exceeds. Duhle didn't stop there. Of 21 passes he completed 15 for 167 yards. Two of them, a one-yarder to Crosse again and a 20-yard strike to Paul DeFazio, resulted in TDs. Duhle also plunked six yards for Pennington's third tally.

Hun never was able to get untracked as Pennington, its spirit mounting with every touchdown, continued to outgait and out-hustle the discouraged visitors. Hun never threatened. The losers were only able to garner three first downs in the entire contest. Its deepest penetration carried just to the Raider's 41, so completely was Hun outplayed.

Line Play Decisive. What had gone wrong? "The battle was decided on the line," Waterman said. "Our line was outcharged all day. We just stood up, or, when we did charge, we charged high. We didn't tackle at all or else arm-tackled. Many boys still don't know their blocking assignments."

The Hun coach's indictment continued: "Our pass defense was weak, we stood by and watched them fall on fumbles we should have gotten; our punting was —Continued on Page 31—

RIVALRY TO RESUME

Andover Invades Lawrenceville. One of the most interesting prep school football games of the 1960 season will be played Saturday at Lawrenceville when Andover takes the field against the Red and Black to renew an old rivalry. The kickoff is set for 2:30, and there is no admission charge.

The two schools played first in 1894 and have met seven times in all, Andover holding a 4-3 edge. The last contest was played in 1924.

Larries Unbeaten. Lawrenceville will place an unprecedented 15-game winning streak on the line. A streak that extends through two consecutive unbeaten seasons and has made school history. Last Saturday, Coach Ken Keuffel's team walloped Blair Academy, 45-0.

Captain Frank Bunch, tailback, in Lawrenceville's single wing scheme of things and an All-State selection last fall, is the Red and Black's primary threat. He scored the first two touchdowns against Blair, the second on an 85-yard run.

Andover comes to Lawrenceville after having lost to the Northeastern freshmen, 26-8, and tied the Tufts freshmen, 0-0. The Royal Blue was unbeaten last season, but lost two of its 11 starters by graduation and a rebuilding job is in progress.

Coach Steve Sorota, who began the campaign with only four lettermen at hand, expects his team to show visible improvement as the season progresses. "Individual slugging is regrettably the Penguin Club's forte," he reports, "what we need is better cohesion and team play."

Ten players from the Mercer County area are on the two teams—nine at Lawrenceville (see picture) and one at Andover. Backfield will be Charlie Stuart of Princeton, who two years ago captained Princeton County Day when it achieved a 5-1 record for its best season in the school's history.

Unusual interest is being shown in the renewal of the Andover-Lawrenceville rivalry, with one of the largest crowds to see a prep school contest expected to attend. Additional grandstands, on loan from Princeton University, will be erected for the occasion.

HENRY TOMLINSON WINS

Diehard Race on Carnegie. Henry Tomlinson won Sunday's week-end dinghy regatta in the Penguin Class staged on the lake by the Carnegie Sailing Club. He accumulated 49.5 points in the four races, finishing first in two of them.

John Bernard with 42.4 points and John Becker with 36.4 were second and third, respectively. Following were Carl Olsen, 35.6; Walt Jefferson, 34; Ted Kelly, 17.7; Tom Hamilton, 28.1; Steve Smith, 22; Ted Nicoll, 21; Walt Foster, 18; Jim Schureman, 17; Bob Wilson, 16; Art Keiser and Fred Hines, 14 each.

BOWLING NOTES

Three-Way Tie in "A" Loop. Nelson Glas, Shelton No. 1 and K of C were all tied for first place in the "A" league at the end of Princeton bowling action last week. Kase Kleenars, Farmers and Building Center, all with 14 points, were only one game behind the leaders. The Reformers (16) held first place in the Industrial League, but Para Lab Supply and Nassau Service climbed to 14 points each in the second spot.

In the "B" loop, Walker Gordon maintained a two-game margin over Edwards Engraving (18). The Sportsmen No. 1 were third with 16 points and Prince Laundry had 14. Decker's Dairy (24) paced the Women's Industrial league, followed by Princeton Motor Lodge (22) and Nassau Bootery topped the Women's loop with 18 points, while Cranbury Bank and Hits and Misses were tied for second at 16.

The women posted two 200 scores and one near miss last week, all in the Women's Industrial League. Lillian Burrough rolled 216 and Diane Fugill shot 200. Dot Moore had a 199-175 in the same league, followed by Betty Kleiber, 188, and Peg Brown, 188. In the men's "A" League, Frank Cawley rolled 203; Fred Goetz, 201; and Bob Cawley, 200.

Question Of The Week

dent, Opinion Research Corp.? The Yankees in six games. Why? Just the factor of too much professional experience on the part of the Yankees.

Nicholas Perna, 149 Hodge Road, chauffeur-handyman: The Yanks in four straight. Everytime I watch them they seem to win. They have better hitters than the Pirates. I don't know why but the Yankees have given me a good feeling this year.

Mike Terry, 1901 Hall, University freshman: The Yankees will win. They always win when it counts. They have more depth. The Series shouldn't go more than six games.

Walter Uffelman, Milburn, insurance man: I favor Pittsburgh in six games. I think the Pirates have played together better all year as a team and have won consistently, whereas the Yanks have been erratic. They beat the clubs they have to beat and then lapse into a slump and look horrible. I also think Pittsburgh proved itself when Skinner and then Groat were out and the team didn't fall off. They showed they had good bench strength. I used to live in Pittsburgh and I've seen them play about five games a year. The players have a tremendous esprit de corps.

BAPTISTS ARE DEMOCRATIC

This does not mean that all Baptists are members of the Democratic party but it does mean that Baptists believe every man must deal directly with God and is personally responsible to Him. Baptists therefore stand for the necessity of personal faith and decision and endeavor to stand by their convictions both in the church and in the communities in which they live.

If you want to gain such a faith and desire to be part of such a Christian fellowship attend the American Baptist Church in your community.

Report from THE MAYOR

Shall We Dance? The "Ballroom" at Borough Hall served its original "purpose" on Saturday evening when nearly 300 youngsters held the first fall session of the teen canteen. The "dance floor" must have been startled by the tread and the tempo. In recent years, these boards have grown used to the measured step of the citizen approaching the tax collector's window, the busy counter of the violations bureau, or the magistrate's court room. As Borough Clerk Mooney and other staff members frequently attest, the quarters may not be something to dance about.

A Reappraisal: It seems likely that following discussions among interested groups, the canteen may return to the Nassau Street school premises. It is anticipated that representatives of the four sponsoring agencies — JTA, YMCA, YWCA and the Jaycees — will meet with school and other officials to reappraise the canteen operations and to make certain adjustments that will enhance the effectiveness of the program.

Everyone seems agreed that the canteen serves a very useful purpose and that it should continue. It also seems likely that renewed interest on the part of all concerned with this community activity will lead to a fine year of canteen fun for Princeton's high school age youth.

A Saturday Date: One of the indispensable parts of the canteen is a supply of chaperones. You won't learn much Bach, Beethoven or Brahms; but if you are young in heart and want to be hip to the latest teen-age musical fancies, the mayor suggests that you volunteer for an occasional Saturday at the canteen. At Borough Hall last Saturday night, it seemed to this music "critic" that the 1960 record favorites are more tuneful and more listenable for us oldtimers than the frenzied beat so noticeable at the mayor's last chaperoning venture.

The Bells Were Ringing: That French paragraph in last week's report may have been a typesetter's nightmare—and, for that, profound apologies—but the invitation thus disguised for French-speaking Princeton families to open their doors to visiting UN delegates and their families brought an amazing response. There is no doubt that Princeton will be able to serve effectively as a host community in cooperation with the United Nations.

Surely this will be an important contribution to much-needed understanding among the peoples of the world. Particularly, we want to make welcome families from those many new free nations of Africa who will be weighing America's democracy with every new contact that they have with us.

"Tell It To The Mayor:" The regular weekly open house sessions will be held at Borough Hall on Thursday, October 8, and Thursday, October 13, from 7 to 10 p.m. No appointment is ever necessary for these informal meetings.

One visitor brought an underlined copy of the mayor's report which noted that "in many ways, Princeton continues to be a show-club." Attached was a photograph of the view from that citizen's window: a neighbor's awnings thoughtlessly thrown with refuse cans, unsightly debris, and other evidence that many of us should be getting ready for a new clean-up week effort. In fact, as was suggested, "Pride in Princeton" is a year-round job, requiring the attention of each of us in countless ways.

QUIET MEETING HELD

By Lawrence Planning Board. In sharp contrast to the stormy sessions that have characterized its recent meetings, the Lawrence Township Planning Board sat in quiet last Wednesday night and considered its controversial Master Plan not at all.

A plan for the Old Orchards subdivision on Eckler Road and Lawrenceville Road, submitted by Raymond A. Bowers, was set aside by the Board for further study. Mr. Bowers proposes a development called "cluster housing" which would require a zoning change.

In a cluster plan, a development is backed by a long straight road. Semi-circular "jughandle" roads link into it at regular intervals, and houses are built with frontage on these side-jug handles. The half circle of land between curving handle and straight main road is landscaped and used for parking. The land behind the houses is used for recreation purposes for the entire development.

There are no cluster developments in this area. Mr. Bowers proposes 30 houses in four or five clusters, or 35 houses in a conventional development. Houses would be in the $10,000-and-up price range.
